1. Locate the plugs for the lower pulley temperature monitors caution system. The two plugs are tie-wrapped to the pylon structure.
2. Cut the wire ties and un-plug the two plugs.
3. Disassemble the plugs by removing the two small slotted screws and nuts that secure the two halves of the plug.
4. Clean the wires where they are connected to the plug probes.
5. Reassemble the plugs, and secure them back to the pylon with cable ties.
6. Check operation of the system by turning on the battery switch and noting whether the caution light is illuminated.
